Civ-Mil Fall Lineup

Mike Belzil

The passage of the summer season and publication of our fall newsletter is an excellent opportunity to recap last quarter's events and outline some of what's in store for the remainder of the year. I hope you were able to participate during the summer gatherings, and we hope you will lend your support for our fall events.

Summer Recap

Civ-Mil sponsored both a large gathering and a small-scale event during July and August. We had excellent participation for our summer barbeque at Lane Ranch on July 28th. Civ-Mil member and our hostess for the evening, Ms Frances Lane, graciously donated the use of her property for our traditional welcome of incoming Edwards AFB leaders. The gathering was attended by more than 125 Civ-Mil members, base leaders, elected officials, field representatives and community guests. Brigadier General Woody Nolan and his wife Debbie introduced the new group of base leaders to all in attendance. Several donations from the Board of Directors, business owners and members-at-large added excitement to the festivities. By the end of the evening, we raised significant contributions toward the funding of this year's annual service project: the completion of the carpeting installation for the approximately 8,000 square foot Airman's Attic.

In August, the Civ-Mil Board of Directors hosted a smaller gathering of base leaders for an evening of JetHawks baseball at the Hangar in Lancaster. For the third consecutive year the board organized this activity on Aerospace Appreciation Weekend. This smaller gathering, limited to a total of 50 board members, base leaders and family members, provided an opportunity for Civ-Mil to interact with base leadership and their families in a comfortable, casual setting. Sky boxes donated by the Board, community members, Clear Channel Radio and the City of Lancaster provided an excellent setting for socializing. This event seems to grow in popularity each year, and it provides an opportunity to acknowledge and appreciate the Board for their Civ-Mil contributions and involvement throughout the year.

Board Elections, Unsung Hero and Member of the Year

This summer we also held elections to establish the lineup of Directors for the Class of 2014. Each summer, 1/3 of our Board positions are competed for 3-year terms. The recently elected Board members will serve until 2014. The winners of the election are incumbents John Fergione, Al Hoffman, Terry Landsiedel, and Pat Russell; and joining the board as new directors are Cam Martin, Richard Spann and Julie Swayze. A related aspect of elections is the voting of officers by the board for the 2012 membership year. Officers are appointed for 1-year terms, and the board unanimously agreed to retain the current slate of officers. As a result, the Civ-Mil officers for 2012 are President Mike Belzil, Vice President Danny Bazzell, Treasurer Bud Reams, and Secretary James Welling. The Class of 2014 and officers were installed during the annual Civ-Mil Installation Banquet on September 30, 2011 at Club Muroc. Our MC for the evening was Dennis Anderson, editor of the Antelope Valley Press. Dennis delivered an absolutely masterful performance, drawing numerous favorable reviews from all in attendance.

We also used the installation dinner to recognize the Civ-Mil Unsung Hero and our Member of the Year. We recognized Art Furtado as our Unsung Hero for 2011. Art was involved in virtually every initiative this past year,

Edwards Civ Mil Support Group praised as officers are installed

The Air Force Flight Test Center Commander Brig. Gen. Robert C. Nolan II had high praise for the support services given to Edwards AFB by the Edwards AFB Civilian-Military Support Group as the 2012 officers and Board Members were installed on September 30. About 100 people attended the ceremony held at Club Muroc. Dennis Anderson, Editor of the Antelope Valley Press, was the Master of Ceremonies.

Brig. Gen. Nolan said “we cannot thank the Civ-Mil team enough for the support you have given us.” Right now about 200 brand new airmen are arriving, some are 19 years old. The Airman’s Attic helps them at this remote location.

Brig. Gen. Nolan installed the Officers, who will serve through 2012. He had them raise their right hands as they agreed to control the affairs, uphold the bylaws, and perpetuate and honor the Edwards AFB Civilian-Military Support group. The officers are: President Mike Belzil; Vice President Danny Bazzell; Secretary James Welling; and Treasurer Dr. George “Bud” Reams. This will be the third year of service for President Belzil, and the second year for the others.

The Board Directors were installed by Col. Gregory Schwab, Commander of the 95th Air Base Wing. Their charge was similar to that given to the officers. There were seven directors installed, who have been voted to serve for three years, from 2012 until 2014. Three of the directors are new to the board—Cam Martin, Judge Richard Spann, and Julie Swayze. The four reelected for a third term as director are—John Fergione, Al Hoffman, Terry Landsiedel, and Patricia Russell.

Outgoing Board Directors were also honored. These are Judy Bauer, Jim McQuire, and Rex Moen. Moen has served for 12 years and personally received a plaque honoring his service. President Belzil said he has been a mentor to the Board and an inspiration. Moen continues his civic service as the President of the Los Angeles chapter of the Air Force Association.

Civ-Mil honored Art Furtado as the Unsung Hero of the Year. He has assisted at virtually every initiative of the group. He is Membership Officer, coordinator for the Annual Aerospace Appreciation night at the Jet Hawks, and helped in the Airman’s Attic drive for large appliances.

Background Information for New Officers

The Member of the Year award was given to Bruce Blankenship. He was instrumental in obtaining a $3,000 donation from Northrop Grumman for the Airman's Attic project. This, along with a $2,000 donation from the Lockheed Martin Aeronautics Company, has provided sufficient funds to complete the second phase of the Airman's Attic project. Soon, the entire floor of the relocated facility will be covered in carpet, to enhance the experience of airmen, and their dependents, when they visit the Attic. Col Amy Arwood, recently arrived Vice Commander of the 95th Air Base Wing, commented that the Edwards Airman's Attic was the largest she's seen, and also the most accessible; there must be really dedicated volunteers running it.

Aida O'Connor, Founder of Civ-Mil and Honorary Lifetime Director, presented reelected President Mike Belzil with an award. He has now taken on the duties of president for a third year.

The keynote speaker for the event was Brig. Gen. Nolan. He said the Air Force Flight Test Center is a crucial part of the Air Force. It has the best airspace on the planet and has available 44 square miles of hard packed landing surface. It is remote and isolated. All these are reasons why we still come here.

There are now six F-35 Lightning II aircraft under test, which is more than initially planned, as we are having success in the program. By the end of 2012, we will have 20 F-35s for testing. There will be six each of the Air Force, Navy and Marine versions, and two of the British version.

The F-22 Raptor aircraft has now been returned to service, after a typical AFFTC operation of "find the problems; fix them." The 411th Flight Test Squadron had already begun working around the clock to test and collect data on the Raptor's oxygen system in order to get it airborne again before the May 3 stand-down order. The fixes are to provide the pilot with more information on the oxygen system, and to install a contamination filtration canister in the oxygen line.

General Nolan also mentioned the forthcoming solar electric units that are being installed at each of the three Edwards substations. There also are plans for a very large solar electricity plant on 3,300 acres at the north end of the base. That may provide up to perhaps 500 MW of power.

Annual Civ-Mil Barbecue brings Edwards AFB leaders, Community together for Airmen

The Edwards Civilian-Military Support Group held its 20th annual barbecue on July 28. More than 140 people from throughout the Antelope Valley and Edwards AFB attended the event to show their support for an organization dedicated to supporting Team Edwards.

“Our mission is to support Edwards and to take on an annual service project that benefits the base,” said Mike Belzil, current president of the local Civ-Mil group.

Air Force photograph by Mike Strickler

Brig. Gen. Robert C. Nolan II, Air Force Flight Test Center commander, welcomes guests to the 20th Annual Civ-Mil barbecue July 28 in Palmdale. Nolan thanked the community and the Edwards Civilian-Military Support Group for its support of Edwards Airmen.

As the sun began to set over the Antelope Valley, a breeze turned the sizzling triple-digit temperature of the day into a comfortably warm and picture-perfect evening - the high desert's way of welcoming the evening's guests. Belzil introduced community leaders, the Civ-Mil board of directors and Brig. Gen. Robert C. Nolan, Air Force Flight Test Center Commander.

The general introduced other base leadership attending the event and thanked the community for their support for Edwards and for the men and women stationed here and at Plant 42.

“The ranch is a beautiful place and this is a great community,” Nolan said. “Thank you from the bottom of our hearts for what you do for servicemen on a daily basis,” he said. The Edwards Civ-Mil group is doing a great job supporting the base, the general said. “Our enlisted Airmen and women need their support. We just don't have the funds to do what Civ-Mil does for our new people,” he said.

Nolan reminded everyone that America is a nation at war and said there are 150,000 young men, women, Soldiers, Sailors, Airmen, Marines and Coastguardsmen overseas fighting on the nation's behalf. One hundred sixty of those warriors are from Edwards.

Civ-Mil's annual project this year is helping the Airman's Attic, and proceeds from the barbecue all go to that cause.

Belzil said the organization's intent is to get the attic fully stocked in time to serve the more than 100 new Airmen expected here by end of summer. He talked about the group's desire to stock the Attic with costly large appliances like washers and dryers, which most families need, but that some Airmen can't afford. Everything in the Airman's Attic is free to Airmen E-1 to E-6.

Civ-Mil founder and Past President Aida O'Connor created the Edwards Civ-Mil support group two decades ago and remains active in the organization.

O'Connor said when she first came to the Antelope Valley, she inquired about joining a Civ-Mil group only to learn that Edwards didn't yet have one. “With all the important flight testing going on at Edwards, I felt it was important to have a Civ-Mil group to help ensure the base stays off the BRAC [Base Realignment and Closure] list,” she said.

So she founded the Edwards AFB Civ-Mil Support group, which she modeled after the Patrick AFB Civ-Mil group in Florida. “People here strongly support Edwards, so I knew a Civ-Mil organization would be well received and put to good use,” she said.

O'Connor said she is very happy with the way the group is going, “It's filled with strong, dedicated and talented business people who stand united in their pledge to support our military.”

She added that her reward for all her years of service to the organization is knowing that everything Civ-Mil does for the Armed Service men and women clearly thanks them for what they are doing for the country.

“They are risking their lives for our country and they need to know we appreciate them.”

Belzil said the yearly event is also an opportunity for the community to meet the Edwards leadership and to keep the line of communication between both groups open. “We have an excellent relationship with base leadership and we communicate with each other about each other's needs," he said.

Frances Lane, who for the past 20 summers has opened the gates to her sprawling Hacienda Lane Ranch, welcomed guests to the $25-a-head western style barbeque. "It's a pleasure to have everyone here tonight," Lane told guests.

A long-time member of the Civ-Mil support group herself, Lane said she looks forward to continuing her 20-year-long relationship with the base.

The informal evening appeared to be enjoyed by all who attended. According to many guests the food was delicious and plentiful and guests had their choice of barbecue chicken or rib eye steak.

Special thanks went out to Civ-Mil members Bob and Michele Slade, the husband and wife team who prepared the side dishes and have been setting up the tables and chow line for the past three years.

By eight that evening, almost as if on cue, the valley's trademark breezes turned gusty, convincing guests to place their empty plates, cups and cans in the appropriate containers - nature's way of saying good night to all.

Guests attending the 20th annual Civ-Mil barbeque in Palmdale on July 28 enjoyed relaxing in the shade while visiting old friends and making new ones. The common goal for the evening was to raise funds for the Edwards Civilian-Military Support Group for their annual project to help Edwards Airmen.

Airman's Attic Notice

Special thanks to Pan Patel

If you, or anyone you know, are interested in making a donation to the Airman's Attic, here is some important information you should know. Pan has donated the use of a storage facility to hold items for delivery to the Airman's Attic. The storage unit is on his property at the Devonshire Inn, 2076 West Rosamond Boulevard in Rosamond. If you have any questions or would like to coordinate storage, please contact Pan Patel at (661) 256-3454.

always participating very humbly and without fanfare. A small sample of his involvement includes helping with large appliance donations for the Airman's Attic; volunteering as a photographer at many of our functions; and orchestrator of the Civ-Mil evening at the JetHawks Stadium.

Our Member of the Year for 2011 is Bruce Blankenship. Bruce facilitated a most important contribution. His initiative helped us realize and achieve the completion of our annual project for 2012: the completion of Phase 2 of the Airman's Attic. Bruce facilitated a very large contribution of $3,000 from the Northrop Grumman Corporation. Bruce's efforts put our fund raising over the top and allowed us to meet our project goal.

Upcoming Events

Member Renewal. The fall season signals the kickoff of Civ-Mil membership renewal. Thanks in large measure to outstanding funds management by our Treasurer, dues will remain at the same level as last year. This year we are urging members to renew immediately so we can complete our membership campaign no later November 15, 2011. The listing of renewals rounds out the roster of members in good standing for invitations to Civ-Mil and Edwards AFB social events. With holiday events likely to occur at the end of the year, we want to ensure a complete listing of current members!

Holiday Food Program. Toward the end of October, Civ-Mil will send out a request for donations in support of our annual Holiday Food Program. This drive helps provide meals for deserving service members and families during the Thanksgiving and December holidays. The Board of Directors will work closely with the Edwards AFB Command Chiefs and the USMC Detachment Sergeant Major to identify the number of families who could use a hand. We will be grateful for your support to help bring holiday cheer for the defenders of our freedoms.

Closing Thoughts

It's been a very busy year to date, and we anticipate a fast and furious finish to 2011. Thank you for all you are doing as Civ-Mil members and supporters of the service members and families at Edwards Air Force Base. If you find you have the time and desire to do a little more, please contact a Board Member to let us know how you can help. We can always use some extra assistance with event planning, donation collections, event support (set up, reception, ticket sales, clean up, etc.) and any of a host of pop up projects that occur throughout the year. Similarly, we are always looking for fresh ideas for events, projects and other initiatives.
